By Charles Nichols
PARIS.—At 2.30 a.m. Wednesday the Paris conference decided how it would do its work of peace-making and ended, for the time being at least, a stubborn and bad-tempered dispute between the Russian bloc of delegates and the western powers.

By a vote of 15 to six, the important rules committee of the conference passed a British-sponsored amendment to the procedure suggested by the Big Four, thereby deciding that the small and middle powers should be allowed to make their treaty recommendations to the all-important council of foreign ministers.

The vital point of the amendment provided that if a treaty recommendation by the conference failed to achieve a two-thirds majority for its sponsorship, but more than a bare majority, it would automatically go forward to the Big Four council which will have the responsibility for the final treaties for Italy, the Balkans and the inland.

The amended rule of procedure, which has been the focal point of the conference debate, negotiation, and lobbying for the past nine days, stands as a compromise between the demands of Australia and the other. It retains the Big Four provision that all substantial votes in the conference must have a two-thirds majority to succeed; but it recognizes the Australian position that if a conference recommendation fails to achieve that majority, it still will be given considered study by the Big Four.

The Russians, supported by delegations from their neighboring states, fought the amendment all the way. They resisted any retreat from the two-thirds majority principle all Tuesday morning, through the long afternoon session and on into the night, until five hours of slow discussion ended in a vote.

Although the British amendment is only a slight modification of the draft rules suggested to the conference by the Big Four, it is possible the Russians again may fight it in coming plenary sessions.

As the situation stands now, the rules committee, comprising heads of all delegations, has decided to

Rap Alaska Road Condition; Army Says It's 'Repair Work'

PORT ST. JOHN, B.C.—Strong protests were heard Wednesday as truck drivers slithered into ditches or "bogged down" in the middle of the Alaska highway north of Charley lake north.

Trucks in difficulty included tankers hauling for R.C.A.F. stations. Military lorries ploughed through the mixture of slush and rocks and tourists "holed in" at convenient resorts until road conditions improved.

Typical of protests of business men along the highway is that of E. A. Tucker, who owns five stores at the southern end of the highway. "The Americans left us a fine gravel surfaced thoroughfare with all supplies and building material at hand. What is now being done is the lowering of the Alaska highway so as to render it unfit for use as a public thoroughfare," said Mr. Tucker.

Frank Clarke, Dawson Creek, department of mines and resources, who reports to the civilian authorities at Ottawa, admitted the road was in bad shape. He said he had been fully informed of the declining condition of the thoroughfare.

Canadian public roads administration and resources department at Ottawa, admitted the road was in bad shape. He said he had been fully informed of the declining condition of the thoroughfare.

Bulldozers were used to drag trucks out of "hog holes" north of here on a stretch of road which was considered the most dangerous highway in America when the U.S. engineers got through building.

East Forest Fires Continue to Blaze

MONCTON, N.B. (CP)—Fire still raged in this area Wednesday and observers said only a downpour of rain lasting several days would end the constant danger of further outbreaks.

One of the most severe forest fires was being fought close to the village of St. John's, in the eastern coast west of Richibucto.

Firefighters attacked Tuesday and now covers three square miles in an effort to prevent the fire from moving into more heavily populated areas to the east. The fire was believed to be of incendiary origin.

Bevin May Attend Peace Talks Soon

LONDON, (AP)—British Secretary Bevin, seemingly tired, returned to his desk Wednesday and the foreign office said he would return to the Paris peace conference "probably Friday."

Mr. Bevin said he felt "not so bad" as he trudged slowly to 10 Downing street for a special cabinet meeting on Palestine, but the effects of overwork which put him to bed for 10 days showed in his lined face.

Confessed Slayer Re-enacts Crimes

CHICAGO, (AP)—The incredible criminal career of William Heirens, 17-year-old self-confessed triple slayer with a rare dual personality, his hands were on the murder scene in the police records Wednesday and the homicide women were solved.

For more than 14 hours Tuesday Heirens related and re-enacted details of the three brutal killings. Law enforcement officials expressed amazement at the matter-of-fact relation of the crimes by the mild-mannered University of Chicago sophomore.

The confession climaxed nearly six weeks of intensive investigation by homicide detectives. Heirens, the youth with the kidnap-killing last Jan. 7, of the six-year-old Degan child; the "lone" murder of Miss Frances Brown, 33, last Dec. 10, and the police robbery, June 2, 1945, of Mrs. Josephine Ross, 43-year-old widow.

Heirens related details of the three murders he was taken to the scenes to re-enact his movements. The first was the kidnapping of the three-year-old child, which he said he had done in the basement of his apartment and identified the laundry tub as the scene of the kidnapping. Heirens, sometimes grinning and sometimes looking grim, appeared oblivious to the crowd which gathered.

The official next took Heirens to the Ross apartment and he re-enacted how he stabbed her to death. Heirens, who had been in the scene of the slaying, the stable, and the house and the house of Heirens' mother, Mrs. Margaret Heirens, mother of another son, who was killed by his husband, was "going away."

That seems to be the best right now, she told a reporter.

Hitler Train Hauls Bullion To Hungary

BUDAPEST, (AP)—Adolf Hitler's former private train, loaded with Budapest Tuesday with $25,000,000 in gold, the captured reserves of the Hungarian national bank to bolster inflation-ridden Hungary's new financial structure.

The 22-ton shipment of gold, bullion and coins, brought from Frankfurt, Germany, under heavy guard and military security, marked the first wholesale return of currency assets to an enemy country.

Hungarian authorities voiced strong hopes the arrival of the gold—100 percent intact—would have their country's shuddering economy following the widest inflation in modern history.

Britain Will Buy 90% Danish Bacon

LONDON, (CP)—Britain has agreed to buy 90 percent of Denmark's total bacon exports during the next year, British officials said Tuesday.

The price for the first post-war food agreement between the two countries was set at $10.10 and $10.30 depending on season.

British officials were reluctant to commit or to make any forecast on the possible long-term effect of the agreement on Canadian food shipments to the United Kingdom.

Mr. Strachey emphasized in the House of Commons that the new agreement constitute a compromise between the two countries.

Under the new Danish agreement Britain will pay $10.10 for the first year, $10.30 for the second year, and $10.30 for the third year.

Under the British-Canadian contract the price for 1947 will be $10.10 and $10.30 for the second year, and $10.30 for the third year.

Low-Priced Homes

A cynical vice-president of the United States once remarked that what the country needed most was a "good five-cent cigarette." One would suppose either the cigarette or cynicism but in tragically sober earnest if one were to paraphrase that sentence by saying that what Canada needs above everything else is a good $3,000 house.

The average Canadian needs a $3,000 house desperately because that is just about what he can pay in terms of rent or purchase instalments. The $3,000 structures are entirely beyond his reach because he can neither touch the capital or interest payments on them nor pay the rents that must be derived from them.

The $3,000 house is beyond the capacity of private enterprise, first, because private enterprise is not going to build at a loss when it can build at a profit and, secondly, because it is not going to be diverted from the building of more expensive houses that yield better returns.

But because private enterprise is in control of the building field, the people who are getting new houses today are the ones who need them least. Those who receive minimum to low income have neither houses nor much hope of getting houses.

An official survey was made in 1938 of 1,439 families of workers with earnings between $600 and $2,500. The average family living expenditure was $1,435 of which $269 went for shelter or about $22.40 a month. A more recent survey made this year revealed that the carrying costs on a $2,500 home would be about $25 per month which would require a minimum income of $1,500.

But 63 percent of Canadians, statistics show, receive less than $1,500 a year.

The truth is that the government has yet evolved means to touch the realities of the housing situation. And the realities will not be touched until Ottawa realizes that only subsidized housing can meet the needs of those 83 percent of Canadians who receive less than $2,150 a year or the 63 percent who receive less than $1,500.

Private enterprise, for obvious reasons cannot begin to meet the situation. That much-needed $3,000 house must come eventually from interest-free public funds.

Recreation Week

Edmonton's Recreation Week occurs this year from September 1 to 7 and the indications are that the event will far surpass the successful affair of last year both in events and public interest.

It is, indeed, a celebration with which every thinking citizen of Edmonton would wish to be associated. Its purpose is, roughly, threefold:

1. To acquaint Edmonton people with the opportunities for healthful and profitable recreation in this community.

2. To bring to their attention the work being done by organizations devoted to recreation, cultural or athletic.

3. To point out the need for the proper use of leisure hours.

All these purposes are important, but the latter is the one which requires thoughtful exposition.

It comes as a matter of astonishment to many to realize that character is formed and life is made pleasant or unpleasant, not so much by what one does in working hours, as by what one finds to do in the so-called resting hours. True relaxation is not obtained and one is not best fitted for one's work unless recreation is positive and productive. The office worker should find something to do with his hands; the manual worker should find some intellectual stimulus in leisure periods if each is to lead a balanced life.

For rest must be more than just idleness. Doing nothing is the hardest work there is. Idleness brings boredom and boredom destroys happiness.

The problem of filling in the vacant hours profitably and interestingly is a vital one, not only for the individual but for the community.

Recreation Week helps to make that problem real and points out many roads to its solution.

Russia and Reparations

It is interesting to note that Russia, a comparatively late-comer in the war, is to receive the lion's share of reparations. She will get, for instance, the following in dollars:

Romania	300 millions
Hungary (as the Soviet share of 300 millions payable to herself)	Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia possibly 200 millions
Finland	300 millions
Italy	100 millions

Total 900 millions
Bulgaria is to pay reparations, but Russia is making no claim on her. She will likely have to contribute to Greece and Yugoslavia. Italy will pay reparations to Greece, Albania and Yugoslavia and perhaps to Ethiopia as well as the Soviet Union.

Britain is not pressing Italy for compensation.

Italian warships and a United Nations' trusteeship over Italian colonies in Africa.

Russia has removed from Manchuria machinery worth hundreds of millions of dollars. She has also taken away a large quantity of heavy machinery from Germany, both from her own zone of occupation and from those of Britain and the United States.

The Soviet, too, expects to receive at least 10 billions of dollars in reparations from Germany. She gets 50 per cent of what is collected. She has already acquired German property in Silesia and Königsburg worth 14 billion dollars.

Russia suffered great losses in the war. She has not been behindhand in seeing that she gets satisfaction for them.

Fingerprints and Cards

The Calgary Herald does not like to see Canadian citizens carrying identification cards. It never did, but it denounces the system in peacetime by the horrid word "regimentation", always calculated to rouse the anger of freedom-loving people.

It argues, and sometimes supports its argument with examples taken from the day's news, that cards can be forged. So can any document. Cheques frequently are. But is that an argument against the cheque system in banking, which The Herald would no doubt have opposed when the cheque system was first proposed?

But while the newspaper wants the system abolished, it advocates with almost equal vigor a still more drastic step in regimentation. Inconsistent as it may seem, it suggests fingerprinting every citizen and keeping the prints permanently on record. But "it is perhaps unfortunate," it is admitted, "that the idea should have come from the police" — at the chief constables' convention at Saint John — "because many people have a prejudiced idea about policemen and fingerprints."

If such be so, any such prejudice should be discouraged rather than promoted. But fortunately there has been no conspicuous sign of prejudice, on the part of peaceable people, against protectors of law, order and property.

But The Herald touches an important point when it observes that people are prejudiced about fingerprints. Certain newspapers notwithstanding, we have not heard any clamor against the registration card, but what a cry would go up if we all had to be fingerprinted! The prejudice against fingerprints stems from the fact that it is associated in the public mind with crime and criminals. It has no better foundation than that, and if it can be overcome the fingerprint would give us a valuable supplement to — not a substitute for — the identification card.

For the value of the fingerprint would be greatly lessened unless the fingerprint were carried by the "printer". "It would make," The Herald illustrates, "the identification of amnesia victims a simple matter. It would, but even a simpler matter if the fingerprint were immediately available. And the use of fingerprints by the banking business would make forgery impossible", which is true only if the maker of a cheque were able to produce his fingerprinted card when presenting it for payment. Not if every inquiry about one's identity had to be referred to a bureau at Ottawa.

CATCHING UP ON THE MISSING ACTS IN A SOAP OPERA

War on Monopoly

By J. H. GRAY

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin
OTAWA, Aug. 6—After 25 years of stalling and stopping, Canada has taken the first steps of a new and vigorous offensive against domestic combines and cartels. The new teeth which the House of Commons placed in the Combines Investigation Act are sharp and strong.

It was the Senate, in 1937, which tossed the monopoly-wrench into the old Combines Act. But a different climate prevails on Parliament Hill today.

This change in attitude springs from three sources: The vigorous prosecution of cartels and combine, in the United States, the exposure in Canadian newspapers of the menace of international cartels, and the report of the special investigation into international cartels by the Commissioner of Combines.

Out of the report came the bill to amend the Combines Investigation Act.

Yet long before the amendments to the Act were drafted the Government had already taken the first in a series of steps toward vitalizing the anti-combines administration. It transferred Mr. McGregor and his department from the Department of Labour to the Department of Justice.

Under the new act, the Commissioner of Combines is given wide power to initiate inquiries.

Previously, the act required the application in writing in the form of a petition, signed by six persons. That is retained but in the new act the Combines Commissioner is authorized to take action "whenever he believes that a combine exists or is being formed."

He can also act on complaints which previously had been receivable by the Dominion Trade and Industry Commission. This was a body set up by the Bennett Government in 1935 as a result of the Stevens' report on price spreads.

All reference to combines investigation to the Act were removed from the Trade and Industry Commission.

Once an investigation has been made and a prosecution seems indicated, the Combines branch can immediately proceed to bring the case into court.

Most important of the provisions in the new bill is the section which should make it possible to police patents so that the patent privilege cannot be used to build bomb-proof domestic cartels, limit production, raise prices and prevent competition.

The bill of course is powerless to attack the serious problem created by the existence of international cartels. This calls for international action. However, one of the new duties of the Combines Commissioner will be to maintain vigilance for monopolistic conditions arising in Canada from international cartels.

LONDON, The Preparatory Commission of Unesco completed its work with record dispatch during a five-day conference in London from July 8 to 12. During the first two days it seemed the conference would drag in a water of delay, but a proposal made by the Canadian delegation precipitated the discussion to practical arrangements for the agenda of the organization's conference in Paris in November and for immediate tasks for the secretariat.

The Canadian proposal was that a few categories of priority be laid down into which a multitude of plans could be fitted. On the basis of this proposal Dr. Julian Huxley, executive secretary of Unesco, suggested five categories which were accepted. They were: Those projects calling for immediate action before the November conference.

Those to be started within two years of that conference. Those, after two years, those to be supported in principle but carried out when circumstances permitted, and those to be rejected.

Following this procedure the commission decided which recommendations from each of the organizations served as a basis for the work to be undertaken. Once they included:

A report on combating illiteracy and further fundamental education in the revision of text books which is to be put before the November conference.

An analysis of past experience in the revision of text books with recommendations to be put before the November conference.

Steps are to be taken to prevent destruction or waste of government research equipment used during the war and needed by the scientific community.

An international publication clearing house is to be established to replace the inter alii book centre which terminates this year.

There is to be a direct aid to artists and musicians in devastated countries and an effort to get musical instruments, art materials, and publications for educational purposes.

Keep Gordon

Brookville Recorder and Times

Mr. Gordon may have made his mistake—he would probably be the very first to admit it—but cannot be denied that throughout he has consistently endeavored to administer his responsibilities in what he has considered to be the national interest. Certainly his conduct has been a model of what we should all strive to achieve if we had not had price control and Mr. Gordon looking over our shoulders.

And the entire economy of the country is being run on a basis of public service in that capacity we would be well advised to let him remain where he is and not try to make an unwilling parliamentary out of him.

LONDON—Composition of the defeated plan which Laval was entering into with the Germans for an expedition to be sent against the Free French forces in West Africa which had recently come over to the side of Gen. Charles de Gaulle. Under the law as it stands, this could not count as an act of resistance.

In fact, the French underground resistance to the Germans did not start on any large scale until after the Anglo-American landings in North Africa in November, 1942. This was the signal that the Allies were really coming to France. This was the moment the resistance really became widespread and useful.

But none of the successive French committees and governments in North Africa wished to have anything to do with Laval. Admiral Jean François Darlan was his deadly foe. Gen. Henri Giraud mistrusted all politicians and, in any case, did not wish needlessly to offend General de Gaulle by including Laval in his government.

General de Gaulle took control in North Africa, one of his earliest signs of the law of the law of Dec. 1944, thus making it quite impossible for the latter to perform acts of resistance capable of relieving him of the "national indignity" which was imposed upon him subsequently by the law of Dec. 1944.

Emperor Franco
Daily Herald (London)

Francisco enthroned today, as throughout the war, as Emperor of the Iberian Peninsula. He is no more responsive to the disapproval of the United Nations in general and the British Government in particular than he was to the chiding voice of Sir Samuel Hoare.

There are without doubt all sorts of reasons why it would be unwise and impractical to take positive measures to end the Franco dictatorship over Spain. But we have now to ask ourselves whether it is not even more unwise and impractical to countenance its continuance.

Heinz Condensed Cream of Green Vegetable Soup

Combine 1 lb. ground beef, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 1/2 cup dry bread crumbs and 1/2 cup milk. Shape into 6 patties. Brown in 1 tablespoon fat in a heavy skillet. Combine one can Heinz Condensed Cream of Green Pea Soup or Cream of Green Vegetable Soup, 1/2 cup water and 1/2 cup Heinz Chili Sauce. Pour over patties. Simmer for 20 minutes, turning occasionally. Serves 6.

MUSIC TRAINING
Editor, Bulletin—Why is it that veterans can go to university or take an apprenticeship in any desired trade without having previous training, but they cannot take the music training?

My husband desired vocal training when he was discharged and went down to see the DVA about this course. He was asked if he was a professional singer or had had many years' training. When he told them that he had not, due to circumstances, they said it was out of the question. It did not seem to matter to them how good a singer he was; they wouldn't bother to give an audition to find out. Someone may have 10 years of music training and be no better than the first year, whereas the one who is a beginner should be given, in all fairness, the courtesy of an audition before any decision is made.

The DVA board was set up for their purpose and it seems to me they are being fair to all veterans."

DISGUSTED

"Grotesquely False"
Daily Telegraph and Morning Post, London

One of the most tenacious of prejudices about this country is that the British colonial Empire is an anachronistic device in the old "imperialism," which in its heyday meant the domination and exploitation of backward races by the white man. It is a white man, too commonly held even by people abroad who are otherwise good friends of this country. Whatever truth this notion may have contained two or three generations ago it is grotesquely false today as any of our critics could have convinced himself if he had been sitting in the public gallery at the debate on the Colonial Office vote. He would have learnt that Imperialism that much abused the "dollar" word as an American writer has called it has a meaning that is far removed from the one habitually attributed to it. In the speech of the Colonial Secretary Mr. George Hudson, the plan was concentrated on the single theme of the efforts being made to guide the peoples of the world along the path of political, social and economic progress.

Martell Finds Niakwa Tricky But Has Par Practice Round

WINNIPEG, (CP) — Henry Martell of Edmonton, fresh from his victory in the Canadian amateur golf championship at Edmonton's Mayfair club, readily admitted Tuesday after a practice round over Winnipeg's Niakwa course that the "greens are so fast and treacherous they scare the life out of me."

Hole-in-one Henry, here for the $10,000 Canadian Professional Golfer's association open tournament said he thought that Mayfair's yardage was a tougher course but the heavily-trapped greens of Niakwa make it much trickier which will cause one to blow up a lot easier than over the Edmonton layout.

But He Shoots Par!
In spite of the dark picture he painted of the rolling fairways and greens, the new amateur king coasted over the 18 holes in the morning in a par-matching 72. Speaking to Freddie Wood of Vancouver afterwards, Henry declared that in spite of its trickiness one of the top notchers might win the event with a score one stroke either

Wood said it was the most dangerous course he ever played against and the eight-over-par 80 he shot afterwards emphasized the opinion which he arrived at when he was out for his first warm up round.

The Vancouver pro told the Edmonton golfing policeman that to his mind Henry's winning forecast was much too low. "The winner

Martell said the par four 445-yard third hole and the fourth, also a par four but 10 yards shorter, were two of the finest golf holes he has played over. "They're real par fours and to do them in those figures requires all you've got," said Henry.

WINNIPEG, (CP) — A field of at least 90 top-flight Canadian and American golfers, their irons and woods tuned for a crack at the Niakwa Country club's tough par 72-layout, Tuesday night stood ready for the opening round of the $10,000 Canadian Professional Golfer's association Open tournament today.

Tuesday the touring pros established Beltin' Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa. as the man to beat for first place money of $2,000 even though the little shotmaker sadly admitted that his game was "awful" and that he needed at least two months rest after playing "nearly every day since last August."

A woman in Cliffe, England, left a sheet hanging on her clothesline and found it gone next morning, but pinned in its place a pound note.

Commons Ratifies

Trade Agreements

OTTAWA, (CP)—The Commons Tuesday adopted resolutions ratifying trade agreements between Canada and the Latin American republics of Mexico and Colombia.

The resolutions were sponsored by Hon. Louis St. Laurent, acting prime minister, who said the agreements, already announced, were of the "most favorable" type and were "one more indication of the growing cordiality between Canada and South America."

The agreements are for two years and will continue thereafter subject to termination on six months' notice.

Rights of Arrested Persons
Are Well Known to Canadians

By Canadian Institute of Public Opinion

TORONTO.—A recent issue reported results of a Gallup poll which revealed lack of knowledge among Canadians concerning the requirements of a warrant for arrest and detention.

On matters relating to the rights of arrested persons, the Canadian public is better informed, the Institute found in the latest poll of an accurate sample of all classes of the voting population.

Reporters of the Institute in all parts of Canada asked:

Which of these things are within the rights of an arrested person?
(a) To have a lawyer advise him before or during questioning by the police? (b) To be told exactly what crime he has been arrested for or family called to come and arrange bail? (c) To refuse to answer questions asked him by the police about the crime of which he is accused?
A good majority replied correctly on each of the four points:

Have a lawyer advise, etc.	Within 80%	Not 8%	Know Rights 12%
Be told exactly what crime, etc.	89%	4%	7%
Have family called, etc.	87%	5%	8%
Refuse to answer, etc.	74%	15%	11%

Women and younger voters (between the ages of 21 and 29) were somewhat less certain about these rights than were men and older persons. Despite the high majority with correct knowledge on each point, not all the same persons expressed an affirmative view on all four.

Completeness of knowledge of civil rights is revealed in the following aggregate percentage of the total sample interviewed who said all four were within the rights of an arrested person:

All four within rights	56%	61%	51%
Men	56%	61%	51%
Women	56%	61%	51%

A further gauge of the people's interest in their civil rights is their awareness of the legal foundations of fundamental human freedoms.

Merchant Seamen
To Get Protection

OTTAWA, (CP)—The Commons Monday gave second reading to a bill extending to merchant seamen, not already covered by existing dominion or provincial legislation, compensation for themselves and their dependents in the event of death or injury.

Transport Minister Chevrier said the principle of the legislation was similar to provincial workmen's compensation acts and to federal legislation providing compensation to government employees killed or injured while at work.

ARREST TWO FOR FIRE

HALLIBURTON, Ont. (CP)—A neglected camp fire which spread until it covered more than three acres of forest land and took the efforts of 100 men to extinguish Monday led police to arrest two Toronto men pending the laying of charges for failing to put out the camp fire.

Lt. Col. Clarence Campbell, MBE, who acted as assistant prosecutor in the Aurich trial of Maj. Gen. Kurt Meyer, of the German army and who was prominent in various other court martial cases in Northwest Europe, returned to the city Tuesday evening after four years overseas with the Canadian Army.

SON OF GEORGE A. Campbell, former city alderman, he is widely known in legal and sports circles in this city. Prior to joining the army he was a member of the law firm of Wood, Buchanan, MacDonald and Campbell as well as enjoying a wide reputation as National Hockey League referee.

In an interview Wednesday, he expressed pleasure at being back in Edmonton, and said that his plans for the future were not settled yet.

Visiting Toronto last week on the way to Edmonton, he was approached by Conny Smythe of the Toronto Maple Leafs, who proposed that he take over the job as assistant to Mervyn (Red) Dutton, president of the National Hockey League.

He expects to meet Mr. Dutton in Edmonton sometime Wednesday, and discuss the proposal with him.

The idea is that he serve as assistant to Mr. Dutton for three or four months and then succeed to the presidency, so that Mr. Dutton can get back into active hockey.

Lt. Col. Campbell is keenly interested in this offer. He expects to report to Calgary for discharge before the end of this month.

SPEAKING OF HIS WORK in the Kurt Meyer trial, he said that he did not altogether agree with the commutation of sentence, granted Meyer, but that he was in no position to criticize.

After the Aurich case, Lt. Col. Campbell served as prosecutor in the court martial cases of Canadian Army officers charged with possessing and exporting arms from Holland, and in several other court martial cases held in Amsterdam.

A GRADUATE of the University of Alberta, he was a star athlete here and while a Rhodes Scholar at Oxford. For many years he has highly successful in furthering the interests of hockey and baseball in Edmonton.

He was also a star baseball player, being catcher and umpire on several Edmonton teams, some years ago. He played rugby for both the University of Alberta, and the Edmonton Eskimos.

He joined the 2nd (Reserve) Battalion Edmonton Fusiliers early in the war and obtained his commission in that unit. After going on active service early in 1942 he was transferred to the Canadian Infantry Corps overseas and served in Western Europe, going to the front in August, 1942.

While overseas he rose from the rank of lieutenant to lieutenant colonel and was awarded the Distinguished Service Order of the British Empire.

Before The Magistrate

JOY RIDING on a tractor looks like it may not prove profitable to Sarto I. Huberdeau, Douglas F. Day and Ahol Hamilton who appeared before Magistrate A. I. Miller, K.C. in city police court Wednesday charged with operating a tractor without the owners consent. Evidence disclosed that John Dragadina, 9520 104 avenue, parked his tractor near 99 street on Jasper avenue while he went to supper. The three men came along and decided to go for a ride. The tractor was later found behind a Queens hotel, up against the wall with a wheel broken off. After pleading guilty the trio told the magistrate they must have had too much to drink. Damage to the tractor is estimated at $40. They were remanded one week.

JOSEPH A. BOISVERT pleading guilty to a charge of dangerous driving was fined $40 and costs or three months imprisonment. His driver's license was also suspended for 60 days. Evidence showed that the accused swung wide at a corner so that he was driving on the left side of the street and struck a parked car. He stated that he was talking to some friends in the car and did not notice he was taking the corner so wide.

A total of 24,238,000 calves were raised on farms of the United States during 1945.

Reservists Plan "Exercise North"

The first of its kind to be held in western Canada, plans are being completed for an exercise involving reserve force officers which is to take place on the Alaska highway Aug. 26 to Sept. 8. It was announced from headquarters Western Command today.

ADMINISTRATIVELY named "Exercise North," the scheme will be training for approximately 25 reserve force officers from Alberta and British Columbia as well as a small number of active force representatives. Staff officers of Western Command participating in the exercise will form the tactical headquarters of Maj. Gen. F. F. Worthington, CBE, MC, 3rd GOC Western Command, who will command the move along the north-west highway.

After assembling in Edmonton on Aug. 25, for issue of the necessary kit the representatives taking part will proceed to Dawson Creek at which point they will be met by transport for the start of the exercise.

APPROXIMATELY 40 vehicles, including recovery and repair vehicles, will convey the officers along the highway as far as the northern town of Whitehorse. It is expected that the journey north will take about seven or eight days.

The purpose of "Exercise North" is to familiarize reserve force officers with conditions on the highway and surrounding country with a view to future training schemes on a larger scale. During the move north to Whitehorse, stops will be made at various points to allow reconnaissance of surrounding country. In addition this reconnaissance of the Alaska highway will allow checking of bridge and road conditions.

IT HAS ALSO BEEN announced that representatives of Western Canadian newspapers and news services will take part in the exercise.

Using abandoned camps along the roadway and existing water supplies, officers taking part in the exercise will be required to do their own cooking. During overnight stops convey personnel will sleep in the open.

Arrival of the scheme in Whitehorse on Sept. 4 and the return to Dawson Creek is expected to take four days.

Forecast for intermittent rain ending late Wednesday afternoon with overcast skies gradually clearing by Thursday evening.

Social, Secretarial Duties Fall To Wife of Premier Bidault

PARIS, (CP)—Bury Bidault, wife of Premier Georges Bidault, is unlike almost any other woman in such a position in the history of France.

She doesn't try to play the role in the grand style. To her the task is a practical proposition, without frills and show, for she is a practical woman.

Before she married Georges Bidault last September, Madame Bidault was a career diplomat—the only one in the French Foreign Service.

Her official title was ambassadorial counselor, first class, but with her career now abandoned she doubles as the premier's personal secretary and his hostess in their second-floor apartment in the Foreign Ministry on the Quai d'Orsay.

Since her husband is premier as well as foreign minister their household is a hectic place but they prefer it to the luxurious ornate presidential quarters in the Luxembourg palace.

Her secretary, Mme. Bidault's chief task is to cope with her husband's daily flood of mail and to see that it is the important to do it.

She reads English and Italian and is learning Russian. At her husband's reception she surprised Foreign Minister Molotov by carrying on a brief conversation with him in his own tongue.

While she agrees with her husband's politics, she is not a member of the Movement Republican Populaire, which her husband leads. "I simply don't want to join a party," she said.

Former City Girl Brides in Quebec

MALARTIC, Que. Trinity United church, Malartic, was the scene of a wedding last Saturday when Miss Kathleen Laura Babchuk, formerly of Senlac, Sask., and Edmonton, became the bride of Mr. Harvey Smith Ross, formerly of Wyman, Que., and recently discharged from the R.C.A.F. Rev. Armstrong Sales, of Bouliamague, officiated at the ceremony, and the wedding music was played by Mr. Fox.

The bride was given in marriage by Mr. Earle Cowper, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and accompanied by Miss Clara Alenard, as bridesmaid. Mr. Irwin Ross, of Malartic, attended his brother as best man.

For her wedding the bride chose a floor-length gown of white tulle and lace over tulle, with a long veil arranged from a Mary Queen of Scots headpiece. She carried an arm bouquet of red and white roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Hotel Chateau, and later the couple left on a short honeymoon. Following a week the bride wore a green two-piece suit with white accessories. Upon their return they will take up residence in Malartic.

Goodnight Procedure Given For First-Date Foursome

By Mrs. Cornelius Beckman
Dear Mrs. Beckman:
A girl goes on a date with a boy (A) whom she has known for some time but with whom she has not yet had a date. The date is another couple, B and C, whom the girl meets for the first time on this date. The couple go to a restaurant and then to a car and then back to a recreation room. At the end of the evening, C drives the four home. What is the correct thing for the girl to say to B and C as they get into the car? And what is the correct thing for her to say to A at the door?

To B and C the girl might say: "Goodnight, Miss Barton (or Beth, if they've arrived at first name during the evening), I've been so happy to meet you both, and we enjoyed every minute of the evening. Thank you both so much. And thank you (looking at C) so much for your car-courtesy and for inviting me to your recreation room. It was such fun!" And to A at the door, she might say: "What a wonderful evening you planned, and how very nice of you to let me know your young friends. Thank you very much, and I hope that soon the foursome will meet at my house."

Dear Mrs. Beckman:
The other day a friend and I were having tea at the house of a friend who has a daughter about seventeen years old. Two or three guests came to tea, and with one lady came her quite elderly uncle. When this elderly uncle was introduced to the hostess' daughter, she rose as she acknowledged the introduction. On the way home, my friend and I commented on this, and we thought that it wasn't necessary for her to rise or even correct. However, this girl's mother is famous in our town for her politeness. Was the daughter correct in rising to acknowledge this introduction? If my friend was very kindly interested because she also has a daughter about two years younger than this hostess' daughter.—E.R.

I can well understand why this girl's mother is famous in our community for her politeness. Her daughter showed the wise and thoughtful training of her courteous mother. Yes, it was indeed proper for her to rise when this elderly man
